Among those who came home from the S. A. T. C. at Stanford for the week-end were Courtland Watson, Jos. Gomes, Gordon Smith, Edw. Vandergon, Wallace Craig, Archie Steindorf, and Delbert Campbell.

Chas. Townsend has been at his Hollister ranch harvesting his bean crop which was not a total loss by the wet weather. He came home Saturday for the week-end accompanied by Claude and his wife, returning to the ranch Sunday.

Miss Hattie Bohnett by her earnest application and results in domestic science has won one of the scholarships at Lux Industrial Training School in San Francisco, after but seven weeks in attendance. In as much as this school offers but two scholarships each year this prize speaks very highly of her accomplishments in this department and we join her friends in extending hearty congratulations.

Duncan---Donohue

The home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Duncan on Johnson avenue was the scene of a pretty wedding Thursday afternoon, when their eldest daughter, Miss Marjorie, was united in marriage to Mr. James J. Donohue.

The ceremony, which occurred at 5:30 o'clock was performed by the Rev. B. St. John of Woodside, using the ring service. The house was well filled by the many relatives of the bride, and a few intimate friends.

The bride looked very pretty and petite in a dainty gown of white crepe de chine, worn with a veil. Her bouquet was white carnations and maiden hair ferns.

The bridal couple were attended by Miss Emily Duncan, sister of the bride, wearing white and carrying Cecil Brunner roses, and Freeman Duncan, brother of the bride. The bridal party took their places to the strains of the Lohengrin march played by Miss Cecil Ellison, violin, and Miss Marion Duncan, piano.

The rooms were very attractive with masses of pink and blue flowers with a background of green. Following simple refreshments Mr. and Mrs. Donohue took their departure. Miss Elizabeth Duncan catching the bride's bouquet which she threw from the porch steps.

Miss Duncan was one of the very popular young ladies of Campbell having grown to womanhood here, graduated from its schools, and been an active worker in the Congregational church, both in the C. E. and Sunday School.

Having completed the Normal course she accepted a position at Buck Meadows where she met Mr. Donohue. That gentleman is the owner of a manganese mine, located near Tracy, but the happy couple expect to reside in San Francisco unless Mr. Donohue is called by the government.

The host of friends of the bride in this community unite in expressing their felicitations, to which those of the Press are added.

Extract from Lawrence Hawkinson's Letter from France

Somewhere in France, Sept. 8, 1918. We are located out here by ourselves, about 8 miles from the town where we are detained. There is no Y. M. C. A. here, as yet, so we have to go easy on the paper. After a few days, a Y. M. C. A. man will undoubtedly arrive, so we can get stationery, etc.

There is a little village about 1/4 of a mile from here. We go down there frequently to buy things, but they do not have much to sell. When we wanted anything we had to gesticulate in order to make ourselves understood.

I learned very little French when at Camp Kearny, because our teacher was poor, but I think I will be able to pick up quite a bit, here, from the people themselves, especially from the children. They are very bright and quick. There are very many children around here, there being several orphans here. They are refugees from the Marne battle area. They are being cared for by the people here. These little children come and climb into our laps and we ask them, in French, what this and that is called and they tell us. In this way we are able to learn quite a bit of French.

We are located on a big estate centered about a big Chateau or castle. I am sending you a post card of it. This will give you a fine idea of the building. It is built of stone and very well built. There is a stone slab outside which bears the date 1303 so you will realize that it is indeed old. Some of the furniture in it is 500 years old and it has elegant furniture, too. The officers are living in some of the bed-rooms temporarily and I was in one of them the other day. There was a great big bureau, there, made of wonderfully carved walnut. There is also a canopied bed of the same material. There are big mirrors in every room, and nice carpets on the solid oak floor. The floor of the entrance hall is laid with beautifully laid mosaic.

The grounds are almost as wonderful. In front of the Chateau is a big lawn and beautiful meadow with oak trees here and there. In back there is a fountain and pond, both of which are now dry, however. To the right is a beautiful old wood with many old trails thru it. There are also several statues about the place, truly a very beautiful place.

As the castle itself is to be used for the base hospital, we sleep in the stable which is about 200 feet from the castle. The stable is built of stone, a foot thick, and the floor is paved with brick. There is a tiled ceiling and slate roof, so it should be plenty warm. We are sleeping on straw till the cows come.

The beams supporting the ceiling are of oak and are put together with pegs of wood, another evidence of age. It rains every day but there is no mud as the roads are of stone and the barn court-yard is of gravel. There is also a great deal of sod. The weather is mild. There is never any need of being wet, as we are permanently situated and always near to shelter and dry clothes.

We are all more than delighted with our location. We are to become the crew of a base-hospital. You see that will mean taking care of wounded men and so will be much more interesting work. Of course there will probably not be any patients here for some time.

France is short of passenger cars, so we rode in freight and cattle cars. It was not bad at all, however, as wooden seats were provided. All the cars are marked, in French "Men 40, horses 8". I was assigned to handle freight, so five of us lay on the baggage which made it much better than where there are 40 in the car. The trip took us 30 hours. We got to the detaining point at midnight, staying there until morning. We came out here next day.

I have received no mail from you yet. We are practically without news, even news concerning the war, so clippings and even an occasional "Mercury" will be welcomed, always.

We are almost in the very centre of France and approximately 125 miles south of Paris, I think.

The country is slightly rolling and well wooded and there are hedges everywhere. There are lots of blackberries growing in these hedges so we have been out picking berries every day, having a nice mess after every meal.

This is a most beautiful, peaceful place. You wouldn't think there was any fighting going on within a thousand miles.

Hunting The Grocer

"Down with the food profiteers!"
—S. F. Daily.

Now that it is open season for food dealers, when every consumer who is inclined to the economic sport takes a verbal shot into the grocer herd, it might not be amiss to have a glance at the chase from the view point of the hunted.

Yes, food stuffs are high, that we will admit; also, every other sort of necessity is relatively high, or higher, that we will loudly proclaim. Seeing then, that our goods are only a few amidst myriads of other high priced things, we protest: "Why pick on us?"

But alas! picking on the grocer is only natural—it's "jest human nature." The stomach is the most self-conscious spot in the human body. Its demands are frequent, and imperative. One may continue to wear fast year's shoes, but one cannot continue to absorb nourishment from yesterday's dinner.

So it is right that price regulation should begin with food supplies—they are first in importance—but it should not end there. There is no justice in hounding the food dealers to the limit and beyond while tradesmen in other necessities go comparatively free. Just why, for instance, should the grocers be the only class of merchants required to post a list showing wholesale prices and profits?

It may be, however, that the grocer is counted big-hearted enough to bear the burden of all the world's wrath at high costs of every kind; that as compared with other classes of merchants, he is more nearly related to the angles. Comforting thought!

The next talk in this series, "Shall We Hang the Grocer or Cut Off His Head?" will appear in an early issue.

Encanto, California, 10-6, 1918.

Mr. Harry C. Smith,

Dear Sir:

Enclosed please find check for $-00

to cover subscription to Sept. 11, 1919.

We always look forward to reading the paper and keep track of how everything in Campbell is. Suppose you hear of San Diego once in a while through the boys in Service down here. Several of them have been out to see us, and believe me, we're glad to have them. Scenes like good old Campbell days again. Albert is in the Navy and some of the Campbell boys are out at the same camp. He and Life Price came out last night. Life is sure some dishwasher, but suppose Al. gets so much, of it at Camp that that's the reason he won't help here.

We certainly have had some rain the past week, and expect more by the looks of things. It surely was too bad about the early rain you had a while ago; we didn't get any of it here to amount to anything.

We have a grocery store and surely are kept on the go early and late.

With best wishes, I am

Sincerely

AUG. JORGENSEN,

Liberty Day Festival

The Cambrian School will have a Harvest Home Festival Saturday morning, beginning at 10 o'clock. There will be an exhibit of fruits, flowers, vegetables, small live stock and home cooking. All of the exhibits will be sold at auction for the benefit of the Red Cross.

A prize will be given to the child of the district that brings the most pils. Everybody is invited and a generous attendance is urged to encourage the children in their efforts.

The speaker will be announced later.

Expecting Too Much.

The girl or boy who expects her friends to be perfect has many a disappointment in store. Human nature is full of surprises, but perfection would be the greatest surprise of all. Do not be astonished when you discover some little flaw in your friend's character. For unless love has blinded him, it is very certain that your friend has discovered a similar flaw in yourself.

HAVE QUEER PETS

Lonely Men in Signal Tower
Welcome All Sorts.Cockroach That Likes Tobacco and Drinks Ink Is One Visitor—Toad Came Regularly for Its Feast of Flies.

A Boston and Maine railroad signal towerman tells this story of pets he has made in his lonely perch above the tracks:

At midnight nine months ago a cockroach crept out from under the telegraph desk and began to drink out of the inkwell; just about that time I laid my cigar down on the desk and began to work the telegraph key.

The cockroach walked over to my cigar and sucked at the moist end for a second or so, then ran to the inkwell again and took a drink, then came back to the cigar; he repeated this performance several times and staggered away drunk as a lord.

Every night around midnight for the past nine months this cockroach has drank from the inkwell on my desk and either sucked the moist end of my cigar or some moistened tobacco I place near the inkwell for him.

One of the boys found a tiny muskrat in the marsh back of the signal tower one day, and he brought it into the tower. The muskrat became very tame and proved a most affectionate pet. He slept on the desk near the telegraph instruments for over two years. Although he went out very often, he wouldn't stay long, and would scratch at the door until some of us would run downstairs and let him in. Unfortunately our pet was killed by a freight train while crossing the tracks near the tower one day.

After the muskrat died we brought in a tiny woodchuck that a trainman had captured out on the line, and he became very much attached to all of us, and, like the muskrat, he became a very clever and amusing pet. "Shuck" stayed with us two years, and finally he disappeared one day. Possibly some dog got him, or he may have been crushed by a train.

For the past 20 years an English sparrow has nested in the eaves of the tower, and this sparrow flies in and out of the tower at will, picks up bread crumbs on the floor and catches an occasional cockroach. What worries the tower men is that our pet sparrow may some day eat our pet cockroach.

Last year a toad hopped up on to the doorstep of the tower and sat there blinking. One of the boys fed him a fly and the toad gobbed it in an instant, and every afternoon all summer long that toad hopped up on to the step and ate flies as fast as the railroad men would feed them to him. The boys took turns and fed him in relays; the yardmaster said the boys were neglecting their work to feed the toad; but he became so fascinated watching the performance that he caught flies for an hour one day and fed the toad.

I'm afraid the toad will go hungry this summer if he shows up, for we're too busy moving war supplies to bother with feeding pets around a railroad yard.

Every stray dog that ever wandered into the yard has found a haven in the tower, and several litters of puppies have been born there.

We've had cats galore; one cat in particular was a snake catcher, and she brought in a snake nearly every day.

Stole Sugar by Bucketfuls.
Sugar thieves employed an ingenious method the other day at Launceston, Australia. A quantity of sugar had been bought for export but, ships not being immediately available, it was decided to store the stuff at the port. Accordingly huts were built on the wharves, but as the decking had shrunk somewhat, tarpaulins were first laid down, and then the sugar bags placed on this. The doors were locked, and a watchman placed in charge. When the time came to empty the sheds the bottom tier of bags were found flat and empty, with a slit in the under side. Each slit corresponded with one in the tarpaulin directly over spaces in the planking. The method of the sugar thieves was simple. When the tide was about half-way up the piers, a boat was taken under the wharves as near as possible to the stores, and then it was only a matter of crawling over the ties, knife and bucket in hand, until the right spot was reached.

Brave Act Rewarded.
Arthur G. Palmer, a water tender attached to the United States ship O'Brien was overboard and struggling in the water. A strong ebb tide was running and Palmer had all he could do to keep from going down. At the moment when he was near exhaustion David Goldman, a machinist's mate, second class, jumped overboard and, beating his way through the rough water, reached the man and brought him to safety. He has been commended by the secretary of the navy for this action. Goldman enlisted in the navy in 1911 at San Francisco.

Up to June 28th the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance received 2,570,555 applications for insurance.

United States Marine Borrows Plane and Does Amazing StuntsHe Wings Five Foes, Captures Prisoner, Saves Wounded Man and Gets Captaincy—While Trying to Adjust Engine Trouble He Sees Two Britons Attacked by Twelve Huns, He Dives
Into Melee and Shoots Down Four of Foe.By FRAZIER HUNT.
In the Chicago Tribune.

American Naval Aviation Camp on the French coast.—Time was when the United States marines were content to be the soldiers of the land and sea. Now they have added the air to their provinces—and the everlasting luck of the marines holds good, even in the clouds.

The other day a fighting Yankee flyer of the marine corps, First Lieut. Edwin C. Chamberlain of Texas, went visiting a British flying squadron on the Marne.

On the first morning of his arrival Lieutenant Chamberlain borrowed a plane and shot down one German in flames and forced another to descend so a British flyer could get him.

On the next day he went as an escort for a party of French bombers over the Marne. On the way back he got into a fight, had engine trouble, and one of his guns jammed. While flying low he saw two of his comrades attacked by 12 Germans. He dove into the mixup and shot down four enemy planes. His engine stopped again, but while gliding low he emptied his gun into German infantrymen.

He was forced to land in No Man's Land. Leaving his machine, he ran unarmed into a Hun patrol of three men. Swinging his compass as if it was a grenade, he captured one German. Then he picked up a wounded colonel, forded a stream, and made his way back to the French line.

The Marine's Own Story.
He requested that his work be re-told. Leaving his machine he ran the British commander insisted on a full report, and now Lieutenant Chamberlain is recommended for a captaincy. Here is his report:

"We then started home and were attacked by a force thirty strong. A dog fight followed. We lost three machines and the Hun three. He withdrew. We were a bit scattered, but got together.

"A few miles farther on the Hun came at us in four formations of ten each, this time outnumbering us nearly two to one. We had an awful dog fight, and lost two bombers and four fighters. I got several bullets in my plane, one of which partly disabled my engine and made it die every few minutes and then run fine for a spell. One gun also jammed.

"Two other fighters and myself and one French bomber found ourselves separated from the rest, and started home together. I kept losing altitude while trying to fix the gun. I only had 100 shots left in the remaining gun.

"About eight miles from our lines, while flying in fair archie fire, and trying to get the jammed shell out of my gun, all suddenly became quiet. I knew this meant there were Hun planes about. Looking up, I saw twelve Hun fighters—a circus lot—circling about my companions, and quite a way above was one coming for me.

Engine Bad, Hunts Fight.
"My engine was missing badly, and had gone dead a moment before, but I went to meet him like I meant to fight. I fired just to break the strain. He suddenly pitched forward and dove straight for the ground. Just then my engine suddenly became very lively, and I started up to join the buzzard dance above, where it was ten to two against us. The eleventh German was sitting high. He evidently was the leader and was watching for some one to slaughter.

"My two companions were darting this way and that, trying to force their way out of the circle, but the Huns were maneuvering so as to tighten the circle. They didn't see me as I flew into the hazy sunlight just over their circle.

"As two went for my companions I went for them, nose down, with the vertical engine full on. I got the first one in thirty yards with twenty rounds from my one working gun. He blew up and went down burning.

Second Goes Down Burning.
"As I dodged to miss him the second enemy turned square about in front of me, and I got him with a burst of twenty-five shots at twenty yards. He spun about, with flames leaping over the machines. The pilot jumped out.

"Then my engine commenced missing. I looked around and saw five coming at me, including the leader, in a mellow gray Albatross. I saw my companions go after a Hun apiece, and each got one. One went down burning and a wing fell off the other one.

"Then my engine stopped full, and the Hun came after me in twos, and I dove vertically for a second, pulled into a loop without power, and kicked into a vertical side slip at the top.

"There directly under me was a desperately moving Hun, but I had him. He went down with a dropping wing in a fantastical spin.

"Then I went after the four remaining Huns. The leader was first. He pulled a powerful wing over at me, but I got the idea first. We met head on. I fired the last thirty rounds and was pilled up myself with bullets going by like hail. I looked out and there was the leader diving on his back, hanging out of his machine, evidently hit. The others reported that he hung as if dead.

"I turned desperately, having no more shots left. I saw my companions attacking the three remaining Huns, who were making off in wide circles. The other two Huns had disappeared, while French bombers crossed our lines safely.

Score, 7 to 0.
"Three of us attacked by twelve shot four down in flames, two completely out of control and one engine out of control.

"Odds, twelve Huns; three allies. "Score, seven Huns down; allies, zero.

"After I had gone quite a way back east my engine went bad and kept getting worse. The other two, like typical British soldiers, stayed with me until near our lines, when the engine died. I was getting all the archie and machine gun fire from the newly established enemy lines. My companions could not assist me.

"I saw I couldn't make our lines in the deep woods, so I dove onto the Hun troops, coming behind their lines. Having fixed my other gun after the fight, I scattered them with a hail of bullets. I then landed on a sloping depression near the wood, an eighth of a mile beyond the enemy outposts.

"I was in a wheat field about 100 yards from some trees, which were swept by enemy machine guns. The enemy outposts could see only the top wings of my machine, but began to shell it. So I tore out the round iron compass and the maps and tried to burn the machine, but only fired the wheel.

"The shells were coming close, so I crawled toward the woods. As I came to a small water-filled ditch, I almost lost heart.

Helped by Enemy Fire.
"On the other side were three Huns crawling towards me. I was unarmed, but remembered that the compass looked like a grenade. I hauled back as if to throw it. Two Germans jumped and ran, one falling, hit by fire from his own lines, and the second being killed. The third cried 'kamerad' and threw down his rifle. I got that rifle, took his pistol, and ordered him to crawl ahead.

"He looked startled when he heard English, and answered in good English. He begged me not to kill him, as he was a married man.

"I told him to shut up and crawl on. If he did not try to run he would not be harmed. We reached the wood, thick with brambles and swept by machine guns and shells. In the middle of the wood was a stream five feet wide and four feet deep. I heard a whispered groan in French, so I crawled along a few yards and found a wounded colonel, who had been hit in the leg and neck.

Cares for Wounded Man.
"The German prisoner followed me without a word. He started to give the man a drink from his canteen, but I took the canteen, washed it, gave the colonel a drink, washed his wounds so I could move him, and then picked him up. I ordered the German to make his way with his hands up. The Hun drew no fire. Then I went in. Snipers took three shots at us, but they only splashed about. The brush was very thick on the other bank of the stream and I had to drag the wounded colonel through the Hun-shelled thickets.

"We were suddenly fired on and challenged in French. I replied in bad French, 'Officer militaire Americain aux blesses colonel,' 'Aviateur Americain,' and added about all the French I knew. A whole string of French came in reply.

"The German said, 'They say I am into the open with hands up.' I did. Then two men and a French officer came. They bristled at the German, but I pointed to my gun and the wounded colonel, who talked fast, whereupon the Frenchman threw his arms about me and talked a lot. We crawled to the outpost. I helped the wounded colonel to the dressing station, which was being shelled. The Hun acted as my assistant and interpreter. Speaking French, he was able to give valuable information, and I took him to the division headquarters.

"When questioned I pretended I did not know what was wanted and wouldn't give my name. After a time the French commander got this information by telephone from the British commander."

What Is Sugar?

By the U. S. Food Administration

Sugar is a food as well as a flavor. One of the simple food lessons the United States food administration has driven home is "Food Is Fuel for Fighters." Sugar is one of the conspicuous fuel foods. Its great advantage is that it is quickly burning, and gives its energy to the body more rapidly than other kinds.

The commercial granulated sugar we buy at the store is "not the only sugar on the shelf." Some of these other sugars have popular names which denote their origin, such as grape sugar, fruit sugar, milk sugar and malt sugar. Their technical names are, in order, glucose or dextrose; fructose; lactose; maltose.

The beet sugar or cane sugar that we buy from the grocer is also an "ose." It is called "sucrose."

The department of agriculture tells us that while the canes and the sugar beet are the only commercially important sources of sucrose, this form of sugar is also found in the stems and roots of sorghum and cornstalks; in the carrot, turnip and sweet potato; in the sap of some trees, such as the date palm and sugar maple; in almost all sweet fruits, and in the nectar of flowers.

When a sucrose, or ordinary sugar, is taken into the body and goes through the process of digestion, it is changed into glucose and fructose. Lactose goes through much the same process, forming glucose and galactose. Maltose, too, changes into glucose.

Glucose is a simple sugar very easy to digest. As it is manufactured today, it contains absolutely no harmful substances.

We need to remember that all the sweeteners the United States food administration asks us to use in place of "sugar" are sugars, too, and though not always in as convenient a form, they give approximately the same food value and flavor.

Bronze Powder Is Now Made
In America, Not in Germany.

The United States industries use practically 6,000,000 pounds of bronze powder annually, and 35 per cent of our total consumption was formerly imported from Germany, but it is now "made in America." For many years German manufacturers have been practically controlling the bronze powder trade in this country, due to the fact that they have been offering prices which were less than those of the American producers. Bronze powder is manufactured in over 200 grades, differing in color and texture.

French Increase Wheat Crop.

The total production of wheat in France this year is estimated at 50,000,000 quintals (183,500,000 bushels) an increase of more than 25 per cent over last year's crop, according to the Intransigent.

Food Administration Urges Test for Wheat Waste; Tells
How to Rectify Operation

A matter of unusual importance to grain growers is the food administration's official test for clean threshing, says Indianapolis News. By this rule any farmer can test the work of the threshing machine he has hired. The test is made by directing the straw blower against a blanket, sheet or canvas during the time the weighing device trips five times, recording two and one-half bushels. If more than one pint of wheat is winnowed from the straw on the canvas, bad work is indicated. One and one-half pints indicates a loss of 1 per cent. If more than three pints is found—which means a 2 per cent loss—reasonable time should be given to correct the bad operation, and a second test should be made. If improvement is not obtained, steps should be taken through the county threshing committee to discontinue operations until the avoidable waste is corrected.

Most threshing committees have formulated detailed rules for the guidance of threshing crews in effectively stopping waste of grain. But more effective than the rules and regulations, the food administration believes, has been the eagerness with which farmers and threshermen have accepted their harvest-time responsibility and the diligence with which they are now stopping every source of grain waste.

JUST BE GLAD

Oh heart of mine, we shouldn't Worry so!
What we've missed of calm we couldn't
Have, you know!
What we've met of stormy pain,
And of sorrow's driving rain,
We can better meet again,
If it blow!

We have erred in that dark hour
We have known,
When the tears fell with a shower
All alone—
Were not shine and showers blest
As the gracious Master meant?
Let us temper our content
With His own.

For we know, not every morrow
Can be sad;
So forgetting all the sorrow
We have had;
Let us fold away our fears,
And put by our foolish tears,
And through all the coming years,
Just be glad.
—James Whitcomb Riley.

Mental Hygiene, Distinct
Innovation in Army Work

"For the first time in the history of warfare," says New York Medical Journal, "mental hygiene as practiced among the soldiers is given the prominence it deserves, and, profiting by the experience of England and France in the present war, the surgeon general was impelled to inaugurate an elaborate organization, both in number and plan, to take care of any mental disturbances detected in the camps or among the soldiers during the war. This is a distinct innovation in the army medical work, for the subjects of mental hygiene and of mental and nervous diseases in general, as occurring among soldiers in war time, were for many reasons either slightly treated or neglected altogether."

Exalted Men.

Hollow trees are always the stiffest, but the mightiest oak, if sound, can bend. The more exalted a man is by station, the more powerful should he be by kindness. There is no policy like politeness, since a good manner often succeeds where the best tongue has failed. Politeness is most useful to inspire confidence in the timid and encourage the deserving.—Magoon.

Purchase of Danish West Indies.

Under the terms of the sale whereby the United States bought the Danish West Indies—now called the Virgin Islands—from Denmark, it was stipulated that German vessels in the harbors of the islands should not be commandeered in the event of the United States going to war with Germany.

The Sporting Instinct.
The shabby-looking man slouched into the silversmith's shop and halted before some fine silver cups.

"They're good specimens," he observed to the shopman.

"Yes, sir," answered that worthy. "They are to be given as prizes for races."

"Ha!" ejaculated the slouchy one, as he grabbed the largest and made for the door, "then suppose we race for this one?"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Then There Was A Stamp-ede.
A group of farmers were crowded around the Postoffice window to get their mail when one of them stalked up and shouted, "Any mail for Mike Howe?" STOP! CALOMEL IS QUICKSILVER

It's mercury! Attacks the bones, salivates and makes you sick.

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can't salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone, because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach.

Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.—Adv.

A Tale of Woe.
"What is a roost, dad?" asked Tommy.

"A roost, my son, is a pole upon which a chicken sits at night."

"And what is a perch, dad?"

"A perch is what chickens perch on," his father kindly told him.

"Then, I suppose, a chicken could come and roost on a perch?"

"Yes," said dad.

"And they could perch on a roost?"

"Well, yes, son."

"But if a chicken perched on a roost, that would make the roost a perch, wouldn't it? But if just after some chicken had perched on a roost and made it a perch, some more chickens came along and roosted on the perch and made it a roost, and some of the chickens would become perchers and the others would become roosters, then—"

WOMAN WORKS 15 HOURS A DAY

Marvelous Story of Woman's Change from Weakness to Strength by Taking Druggist's Advice.

Peru, Ind.—"I suffered from a displacement with backache and dragging down pains so badly that at times I could not be on my feet and it did not seem as though I could stand it. I tried different medicines without any benefit and several doctors told me nothing but an operation would do me any good. My druggist told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it with the result that I am now well and strong. I get up in the morning at four o'clock, do my housework, then go to a factory and work all day, come home and get supper and feel good. Those Who Lie Often Commit Greater Crimes

Turkish Rugs and Mahogany Furniture are not a safeguard to wives, daughters and sisters against depravity

During the twenty-six years I have been fighting the Dental Trust, I have been accused by the ethicals of nearly everything from malpractice to manslaughter, but never until now have I been accused of being instrumental in raising dental prices.

The Dental Trust is publicly announcing that Dental Amendment No. 21 will require every dentist to employ a nurse and thereby raise dental prices. This is a wilful lie.

The official argument against this measure written by Dean Millberry, of the College of Dentistry of the University of California, is not based on the true facts, and is apparently made without sufficient knowledge of the amendment, or with deliberate intent to mislead the voter.

Dental Amendment No. 21 does not require any dentist to employ a nurse. It states plainly that when an anesthetic is used an adult third person must be present. That third person may be a friend, relative or any other available person.

Is there a mother, father, husband or brother who would say this requirement is not a needful safeguard?

To cherish the virtue of our girls and women, private wine rooms and boxes have been abolished by law from nearly every city in the United States. Yet persons under the influence of liquor can as well protect themselves as those under the influence of an anesthetic.

The dentist who objects to an adult third person being present when an anesthetic is given is not a safe person in whose care wives, daughters and sisters may be trusted, and yet we find the Dental Association, aided by Dean Millberry, openly opposing this particular clause in the Dental Amendment.

Lies about raising dental prices do not answer or satisfy the people of California who put this amendment upon the ballot. It is up to Dean Millberry and these associates to explain.

If Dean Millberry does not stand for morality, he is not a fit person to direct the destinies of our young men in our foremost university, and he is not a fit man to draw a salary paid by the taxpayers of California.

It is up to you, Dean Millberry, to see that this shameful campaign of lying and misrepresentation to defeat a good measure is stopped, and stopped at once.

The people should know the truth about Dental Amendment 21.

"No, not exactly," replied Tims, moodily. "Fact is, she got it by accident."

"By accident!" exclaimed Jones. "How was that?"

"Well, old fellow, it was this way. I got home rather late the other night. The hall was very dark, but I could just distinguish a figure standing by the chair. I slipped up to her, put my arm around her waist and whispered, 'Marry, give me a kiss.'"

"But—but," stammered Jones, "I thought your wife's name was Kate!"

"It is," murmured Tims; "that's how she got the coat."—Tit-Bits.

With the Fingers! Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callus the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off with the fingers.

Freezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn or callus without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or hardened callus. If your druggist hasn't any freezone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you.—Adv.

WOMEN AND THE WAR

By MRS. HENRY P. DAVISON

Treasurer War Work Council
National Board Y. W. C. A.

Hostess Houses in the military camps all over the country are one phase of the Y. W. C. A. War Work Council's activities. These reception houses are placed at the entrance to the camps where the use of women visiting their soldier relatives. So necessary, have these proved that tents and borrowed rooms were pressed into use until houses could be built. Often the Association rooms in the nearest town were turned temporarily into hostess houses.

"We put up an extra cot," reported one western secretary, who returned to tell the War Work Council the special needs of her community, "for an old Lithuanian mother who came a hundred miles to see her boy in camp. She cannot speak a word of English and she has to have her old black pipe every hour. But her boy loves her."

"Another charge bestowed upon us
is the girl-wife of a 'bootlegger' arrested for selling whisky to soldiers.
He was wild with anxiety about her till we said we would look after her.
A thirteen-year-old imp has just been turned over to our care. She ran away from a convent, and being adventurous, made straight for camp."

Any hostess can tell you heartbreaking stories of times when the hostess house has been the refuge of stricken women. She can tell you also of incidents when the hostess

house has brought about a happy ending.

Prayers of gratitude for the Hostess House are murmured every night in many towns by women who are of no particular importance to any one except to some man in the army—
and to God.

The commandants of the camps are as appreciative of the hostess houses
as is the most forlorn woman. No house is erected except at the direct request of the commanding officer.
Fifty-four houses are now in use,
others are being built as fast as lumber and carpenters can be secured.

Each house has its individuality.
The plans for the building at Camp
Gordon, Atlanta, Georgia, were redrawn by Miss Fay Kellogg in order to save three magnificent oak trees.
A fine old Southern mansion secured for the Young Women's Christian Association headquarters at Petersburg, Virginia, is as popular with the soldiers from Camp Lee as is the official hostess house.

The hostess houses serve the entire nation.

The work with girls is one of the most important functions of the War Work Council. It deals with all kinds of work with girls. Girls in small towns, in cities, in country villages,
and in the great manufacturing centers are all touched by the unusual conditions of a country in a state of war preparation. Their patriotism may urge them toward unexpected victims. Their very enthusiasm leads them into danger.

KEEP HIM ON THE RUN.

OUR armies have been steadily forcing the Germans back.
On those of us at home rests the duty of keeping a never ending stream of supplies pouring to the front.

Now is the time to redouble our efforts and never give the enemy
a chance to catch his breath.

Let's give it to them double, one defeat after another at the front and one Liberty Loan after another at home.

While we have him on the run never give him chance to make another stand.

Do your part, buy to the limit.

WE, U. S. & CO, are barely in the fight and now a peace offer is made. The Kaiser probably could not have made a worse. It was insult added to injury to every red-blooded American, when the tricks of the offer were known. Better hold those offers, Mr. Fritz, until U.
S. gets to going good, then you'll discover what kind of a nest of fighters you stirred up over here. We have nearly two million men on the western front and millions more on this side simply aching to get over there and into the fray. The best answer to this offer was made by our brave Yanks who took another smash at the Hun line on a twenty mile front. Another offer like that will call forth a stronger answer.

THE KAISER, in a wordy proclamation issued to his army and navy recently, stated that he had decided to offer peace to the enemy.
Then came his offer thru Prince Max of Baden. In this proclamation he boastfully tells his fighting men that they are "heroically defending the Fatherland on foreign soil." Thus is the consistency of the all-highest shown in its true light, "Offering peace—defending on foreign soil." He may be able to hold his station in the eyes of his fighters but such talk falls short of its aim when it reaches the home folks or the enemy. His offers of peace will be received only when he comes with his hat in his hand and asks what kind of peace must be offered.

WILHELM has erred again. He has become so accustomed to being Germany that when he speaks of Germany's defensive war-fare he simply means war for his own defense; rhetorically speaking, the container for the thing contained.

Busy Workers

A very gratifying number of ladies gathered Tuesday at the Grammar school for the Home and School Club meeting, there being several new faces
among them.

A quantity of sewing was completed and plans discussed for the future. The children are collecting clothing to be sold in the San Jose Salvage Shop and the ladies were asked to overhaul them
a little, which will be done next Tuesday.

At the business meeting, the resignation of Mrs. Theo. Cutting as treasurer was accepted and Mrs. L. Carboni was elected to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Kinner reported the installation of the telephone, only made possible by switching some patrons to other lines, as the government has restricted
the stringing of new wires. The phone number is 501.

Mrs. W. I. Merrill brot some articles regarding the Spanish Influenza, found in Medical Journals, which were read and discussed, everybody being urged to take every precaution and keep watch for symptoms. By care and attention the serious complications may sometimes be averted.

BUY BONDS NOW.

Discipline.
Know you not that our business here is a warfare, and one must watch, and one go out as a spy, and one must fight? You neglect to do the bidding of the commander, and complain when he hath laid somewhat rougher than common upon you, and you mark not what, so far as in you lies, you are making the army to become, so that if all copy you, none will dig a trench, none will cast up a rampart, none will watch, none will run any risk, but each will appear worthless for warfare.—Epictetus.

Baby Natural Monopolist.
There is about the baby none of the subtle deceptfulness of the old, practiced bore who deftly turns the conversation to his own exploits and affairs. Baby simply takes off the muffler from his personal self. The entire household attention turns at once to his affairs. He monopolizes the conversation with his breathless account of his hunger or of his connection with the open safety pin—and that is all there is to it.

Moon Superstition.
Among the Hindus and Egyptians
the mouse was carried to the moon.
De Coubertin says: "The pagan sun-
god crushes under his foot the mouse of the night. When the cat's away the mice will play. The shadows of night dance when the moon is absent."

Influenza Fight On

The following excerpts on Spanish Influenza are taken from "The Journal"
of the American Medical Association.

"The disease is similar to the familiar local influenza, except it is often more severe, complications more frequent and serious. The period of incubation (ex-posure to development of disease) 1 to 2 days.

The onset is very sudden, the patient often passing from apparent health to almost prostration in 1 or 2 hours. Very seldom a sore throat, but fever rises rapidly to from 101 to 105 F., patient complaining of severe headache, weakness, and pains in muscles and joints, especially in the back, alternating chilly
and warm sensations, face flushed, pulse from 100 to 120, sometimes nausea and vomiting."

The following instructions have been prepared to help prevent the spread of the disease or its more serious results.

Causes. Use of roller or other common towels; contact with microbes in crowded or badly ventilated gathering places; exposure to inclement weather without proper protection of lungs and throat; getting feet wet; expectoration;
failure to disinfect all articles in contact with infected persons.

Remedies. Go to bed at once and call a physician. Do not say, "I'll be all right, just a cold," or "Guess I may be getting the grippe." The most serious and usually fatal danger, pneumonia, may thus almost certainly be avoided.
Aspirin, the salicylates and quinine—
which should, however, be used advisedly.

Preventatives. Keep the body vigorous and clean by bathing, exercise, deep breathing and good ventilation. Avoid exposure and infection by familiarity with causes of the disease.

Powdered boric acid may be used as a snuff; Dobell's or similar antiseptic solutions as a gargle. A salt water solution is a good gargle, a small teaspoonful in half a glass of water. Avoid worry or overwork.

Local and Personal

Earl Page went to Yreka recently where he is attending high school.

Frank Mendel was in the hospital
over the week-end but is reported on the mend.

Raision Allison motored to Porterville
Wednesday with his father and sisters,
to remain until the last of the week.

Miss Agnes Howe will address the Home and School Club in Campbell
Tuesday afternoon on school legislation.

Mrs. W. E. Eckles and her father, Mr.
J. H. Aten went to Loomis Monday to look after the farming interests of Mr.
Eckles.

Mrs. H. L. Preston, who has spent several weeks visiting her parents at Knoxville, Iowa, is expected to arrive home Saturday evening.

All parties knitting sweaters for the Campbell auxiliary please hand in the completed garment as soon as possible.
By order of the Red Cross.

There are at the Press office 100 tickets for the Liberty Theatre. If you go to the movie buy tickets here and the Red Cross will receive half the money.

Mrs. J. S. Morgan of Sunnyvale, mother of Mrs. R. A. Holmes, is awaiting a call at any time for service as Red Cross nurse for which she has prepared herself.

We are showing some cards of the chateau where some Campbell boys are stopping. This is described by L.
Hawkinson's letter but the cards were sent by Gilbert Newcomb.

The Moreland School has been closed
as a precautionary measure, owing to the prevalence of colds among the pupils, but a full attendance is desired on Monday morning when school will reopen.

"Sonny" Edward Vandergon leaves to-morrow for Ft. McArthur, Texas, with fifty other Stanford students to attend the Central Officers' training Camp.
"Sonny" has had one go at that drill at the Presidio and will surely make good at the new camp. Best of luck go with you, Ed.

The Harvest Home reception planned for the Rev. and Mrs. J. O. Duncan, pastor of the Methodist church, has been indefinitely postponed on account of sickness in the community. Rev.
Duncan is the newly appointed pastor
here, having been chaplain at San Quentin last year. A most cordial welcome is extended our new neighbor by the community. Mr. and Mrs. Duncan are busy getting settled in the parsonage,
where they will be glad to make the acquaintance of the Campbell people.

Fine Herd Sold

Campbell has lost one of its prominent industries and one in which the community took a great deal of pride. The Orange Grove Farm has sold its choice dairy herd to the "Sleepy Hollow Ranch"
at San Anselmo and the people of San Francisco are the winners thereby as certified milk is a requisite there. This herd has produced quality products for this community and good milk is always in demand. Supt. P. H. Davis of the ranch is to be congratulated on his find.

We are now selling

practically all of the school supplies used in this community, both for the high and grammar schools, and a good share of other stationery supplies.
